Administrative Penalties In addition to the possible criminal charges above you will also face penalties with the Maryland Motor Vehicle Administration for failing or refusing to take a chemical test.. DWI You can be charged for DWI if your BAC is 0.07% or higher: In many cases, people who end up on the lower end of the BAC spectrum but fail miserably on a field sobriety test end up with this charge.. This is all well and good until someone decides to hop behind the wheel after a few too many drinks with the gang.. If you are pulled over, you could possibly be charged with two types of offenses.. It means, among other things, that your blood alcohol concentration (BAC) posted at a level of 0.. DC is right next door It feels like there is a university every
