the \u2665\u2665\u2665\u2665ing thing dosent even install waste of cash. This is a very good scenery add-on route and fills a needed gap in the GWR timetable. Hopefully at some point we will get the full Swansea to London Paddington route - a journey I make regularly . Attention to detail is excellent in this add-on , and Newport station is well depicted since its recent revamped terminal building. I love the trampoline's in the back gardens of the terrace houses outside of Newport station - it makes me chuckle when I pass them - a nice touch.

Recommended !.. If you like thrilling puzzle games then this one is definitely for you. With the use of your "echo" you can be your best friend or worst enemy as you navigate the different levels, thrillingly racing against time and avoiding collision with your echo. The levels are a gradual increase in difficulty making it fun but frustrating with every success and failure. Highly recommended. I'm always searching for new experiences, new stories and settings -- and of course new directions I haven't seen games go.

Dujanah was an impulse buy. As someone who who is a huge fan of Michel Gandry and messed around with stop animation in the past, the aesthetic of the game blew my mind.

Art, animation, sound -- this game is the whole package.

Along the main story, a grindhouse like revenge story you run into many memorable characters that each have little backstories that range from charming and uplifting to downright disturbing realizations that some characters are stuck in a living hell.

There's also 6 arcade games within Dujanah that I would gladly have paid for as a standalone package.

I was unfamiliar with Jack King-Spooner before Dujanah but now I have Beesway, Morr's and the other ich.io games to play through.

STRONGLY RECOMMENDED

(The first ~10 mins of gameplay in a no commentary Quick Look)

<https://youtu.be/hrXS-ENo6lA>. It's got solid old school puzzles of the 2d variety and I enjoyed the humorous story. After beating all 40 levels I felt accomplished having conquered the hard end stages and resolving the story.. It is hard to review or recommend a game that shows up as nothing but a black screen.. A competent but poorly-written student-teacher game project that has zero original ideas.. I love Tower Defence! Good game). Overall I am not a fan of this game, but it must have something about it for me to complete as much as I did. I found the over-use of the same kind of puzzle, irritating. For example the jumping from one platform to another where the distance between the two areas are very critical, and is most irritating when you have completed 90% of the jumps only to fail at the last. It's not the style of adventure games that I prefer, I like to solve problems, not bash the hell out of my keyboard just to get from A to B. On top of that there are a number of game-play traps where I found myself looking for a solution and trying to gain access to unusual places only to find I have found myself in an impossible (in my view) unrecoverable position, and the only answer for me was to restart the level. I believe that happened to me in all 4 lands. To be fair to the software developers my screen adapter driver was not recommended, but in attempting to upgrade my driver I was putting my PC in jeopardy, by getting at one point the dreaded blue screen of death. I was lucky and able to restore the PC but decided to not risk any further upgrades. The visual graphic appearance is excellent, the music very pleasing, but ultimately the game-play is not my style.. If you enjoyed the humor of the original Leisure Suit Larry games when Al Lowe was still involved, you will love this game. It is a fantastic comeback for Larry Laffer and it feels like this game almost makes up for the horrible console games that came out in previous years. I love the little things you will find/hear in game that make it feel as though it was made by people who played the originals themselves. It feels like a lot of love went into the creation of this game. The premise that Larry is now "schmoozing" in modern times is hilarious. Granted it is a Leisure Suit game and there is going to be immature humor, but it never feels forced. If you liked the old Leisure Suit Larry you should definitely get this one! Hopefully this isnt the last LSL game from this team.

For less than the cost of a cup of coffee you too can have a goat with a Tesla coil on his back.. Meh... useless gear.
the meteor just killed me.

Never use them again... 5/5 I got stuck after 10 minutes or so. There is a lot of visual noise here, and the background music is honestly really distracting on some levels. But if you're able to get past some flaws, the game itself is a pretty solid spacial puzzler that's worth the cost of admission (especially if you get it on sale like I did). While the choice in music is questionable, the makers of this game definitely know what they're doing when it comes to sound design, because by adding some grinding and satisfying thuds, they made clicking on a bunch of triangles oddly appealing to do.

Just a heads up though, the background music in the game sounds NOTHING like what they put in the trailer.

EDIT: Never mind. I made it to around level 60, and the sensory assault just becomes way to much to handle.. This game is an awesome game it feels like Mario cart, The graphics are just beautiful and just the diversity in cars and characters is awesome. Do not ever ♥♥♥♥ing play this game unless you are literally on the verge of suicide and need fake virtual friends.. this game is pretty nice.. but there is no content finished in less than a hour. Incredibly fun game. Holds up well if you can get past the ancient graphics and keyboard-only controls.. Could be great game if it wasn't totally pay to win.
